THE WORD HEREAFTER.

THE WORD REREAFTER.

The word "hereafter" appears twice in the first part of the section in the original act, and the clerk in transcribing, after taking his eye from the page, must have taken the last "hereafter" for the first one when he looked at it again, leaving out the words "hereafter grants under the provisions of section 1145 of the Code."

But the third section of the first act was left in force and reads as above.

After the error was discovered the State officials asked Attorney-General Sectit to give his opinion on the subject, which he did as follows on the 3d of April:

"I have examined the acts of February 10 and February 28, 1890, imposing registration fees upon charters. In the last act, it is true, in the first section, no mention is emade of charters granted under section 1145 of the Code of Virginia 1887; section 2 provides 'such fees shall be paid into the treasury' and the fact of payment shall in case the charter was granted under the provisions of section 1145 of the Code of Virginia be certified by the Auditor of Public Accounts to the Secretary of the Commonwealth, and the fact of the payment, in case the act of

As late as 3:30 o'clock little had been done except the development of lung power. At this time E. A. Randolph offered a resolution that they now proceed to decide upon a day to be celebrated annually. This resolution was adopted, and D. N. Vassor moved that the 22d day of September be selected: April 3d was also named.

T. G. Ragland, of Mobile, Ala., opposed both September 22d and April 3d, as those dates both interfered with the planting and gathering of the cotton crop, and spoke strongly in favor of January 1st.

A substitute was offered by the Norfolk delegate that January 1st he made the day for the celebration. This was urged by him with that eloquence peculiar to his race.

GEORGE WILLIAMS.

The result of the vote was received with loud hurrals. W. W. Brown then gained the ear of the Chair and suggested that they unite in prayer. This suggestion was adopted and prayer was offered by Rev. A. Spiller, of Hampton.

The Viaduct scheme.

At the last session of the Board of Aldermen a resolution was passed that a committee be appointed from both branches of the Council to Inquire into the expediency of building a viaduct on Broad street from Twelfth to Twenty-second. It was further ordered that the committee confer with the street railway companies in Richmond as to what they would be willing to contribute to the enterprise.

It is thought that if the viaduct is builtione of the car lines will run on Broad street, and it would be a valuable franchise to any company, inasmuch as the travel from the two hills could be made in quick time. The resolution has been approved by the Mayor, and the committee is as follows:

From Board of Aldermen—N. D. Hargrove, W. M. Turpin, and J. H. Capers, Common Council—E. H. Fergusson, William H. Curtis, John Mann, Jr., and Charles I. Phillips. The committee also includes the presidents of both brances and the City Engineer.
